RAJYA SABHA

The following Bills were introduced in the Rajya Sabha on the 27th August, 1993:—

I

BILL No. LXIV of 1993

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fourth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1993. Short title.
2. In article 54 of the Constitution, in clause (b) after the words "the States" the words "and of the Legislative Councils of the States having such Councils" shall be inserted.

Amendment of article
54.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In accordance with article 54 of the Constitution, the President shall be elected by the members of an electoral college consisting of the elected members of both Houses of Parliament and elected members of the Legislative Assemblies of the States. In Bihar, Jammu and Kashmir, Karnataka, Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh, Legislative Councils are also functioning. In each of these States both the Assembly and the Council constitute the Legislature of the State. Like the Council of States, the Legislative Council of a State is not subject to dissolution and the members of the Legislative Council enjoy the same powers and privileges. According to article 171 of the Constitution members of the Legislative Councils are elected by electorates consisting of members of municipalities, district boards and other local authorities, in the State as Parliament may by law specify, and of graduates, teachers and also by the members of the Legislative Assembly from amongst persons who are not members of the Assembly.

It is therefore, felt just and proper that the right to vote in the election of the President should also be given to the members of the Legislative Councils, wherever they exist and that the relevant provision in the Constitution should be amended for the purpose.

Hence this Bill.

SATYA PRAKASH MALAVIYA

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 2 of the Bill provides that the elected members of the Legislative Councils, wherever they exist, shall also have the right to vote in the election of the President of India. This provision may involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is expected that the Bill, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India, whenever an election to the Office of President of India is held. There may be a nominal expenditure of about rupees twenty five thousand in preparing ballot papers etc.

No other expenditure either recurring or non-recurring is likely to be involved from the Consolidated Fund of India.

II

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

On September 23, 1887 Act XVIII incorporating the University of Allahabad was passed and it was by this Act that Allahabad University was founded. The first convocation of the University was held on November 15, 1887. It was initially purely an examining University and in the Year 1992 it was reorganised into a teaching University. The founders of Allahabad University had always dreamt of it as a centre where the youth of the country would be trained, equipped and moulded to shoulder the diverse responsibilities of life. It has played a great role in the sphere of education, politics, social life and administration of the country. The former students of Allahabad University have filled the learned professions, the public and social services, the world of trade and industry, the sphere of politics and diplomacy.

In the past Central Government did make certain proposals to the Government of Uttar Pradesh for conversion of Allahabad University into a Central University. But they have not materialised for various reasons. It is, therefore, proposed that Allahabad University should be converted into a Central University.

Hence this Bill.

The Bill, if enacted, and brought into operation will involve expenditure from the consolidated Fund of India. No non-recurring expenditure is likely to be involved.

Clause 17 of the Bill gives power to the University to make statutes. Clause 18 gives power to make Ordinances. Clause 19 gives power to make regulations.

The matter for which Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations may be made pertain to matters of procedure or details only. The delegation of legislative power, is therefore, of a normal character.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Very recently at Saharanpur in the State of Uttar Pradesh a middle aged woman who was going to depose in a court of law was dragged by some goons and forcibly stripped in front of the court and two adjoining police thanas in the area and she was paraded naked and taken to one of the thanas in full public view and even the local police which is supposed to protect the life, honour and property of the common citizens remained a mute spectator of this gory incident. The goons with the connivance of the corrupt police would have succeeded in hushing up the incident but for the intervention of the National Commission for Women which took up the case of the hapless woman and highlighted the case at the national level. Again in the recent past an old woman belonging to the weaker section of society was stripped and paraded by some landlords in the State of Andhra Pradesh and in Madhya Pradesh some Harijan women were stripped and forced to dance naked on Holi festival by some upper caste people belonging to a national political party which was at that time ruling the State. The nation has not also forgotton the famous Maya Tyagi stripping case at Baraut in Uttar Pradesh. This inhuman practice of stripping of women goes back to the epic Mahabharata period but in that case Lord Krishna had saved Draupadi from the ultimate humiliation but to-day no Lord comes to the rescue of such hapless women or girls, rather the Police helps such law breakers. The Indian Penal Code is silent about this offence. It is, therefore, necessary that deterrent punishment be provided for such an offence and the trial of such offence be held in camera by the Sessions Court. Similarly deterrent punishment needs to be prescribed for outraging the modesty of a girl or woman. It is felt that these provisions may help in curbing the incidents of stripping or outraging modesty of girls and women at public places in the country.

Hence this Bill.

SURESH PACHOURI.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Unprecedented drought conditions are playing havoc in various parts of the country for the last few years. Drought conditions are prevailing consistently for the last three years in the tribal belt and Chhattisgarh region of Madhya Pradesh, Palamu division of Bihar, Kalahandi of Orissa and various parts of the Andhra Pradesh, Rajasthan, Gujarat and other parts of the country. The farmers could not sow their crops in the parched land of these areas and rain God is consistently evasive in such areas resulting in acute shortage of even drinking water because the wells and hand pumps have either dried up or the water level has gone down considerably. There are no irrigation facilities. The inhabitants have no food to eat and no water to drink resulting in their exodus to other places. In many places starvation deaths have also been reported. The worst affected are the mute livestock dying unnatural death in the absence of fodder and water. Though the Central and State Government are giving some relief, it is inadequate and even negligible. The people are not getting foods and water for their survival and the employment opportunities are meagre. The situation has gone from bad to worse due to the apathy of the authorities. To save the situation urgent steps have to be taken at the national level.

The natural calamity of drought is not a temporary one in these areas. It is almost a continuous process. So, a long term national policy will have to be formulated for the proper development of these drought prone areas. The onus of formulating such a policy lies on the Central Government. An autonomous Authority will have to be established for implementing the plans formulated for the development of drought prone areas in the country. This has to be undertaken on priority.

This Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Our country is a country of villages because nearly 80 per cent of the population resides there. But most of the villages particularly in the remote areas, generally inhabited by tribals and weaker sections of the society, are neglected and extremely backward. No development work has been done at such places. They are virtually cut off from the rest of the country. Postal and telecommunication services are negligible in the villages. There are not even letter boxes in the villages what to talk of Post Offices. Similarly if the hapless poor villagers or their Panchayats want to convey their plights such as law and order problems, epidemics etc. to the authorities of the State or Central Government there is no telephone service in these villages and the cases of thefts, rapes, dacoities and outbreak of cholera, gastroenteritis epidemics are very common in these villages. The authorities and people of the country come to know about such incidents and epidemics very late when the worst is over and nothing can be done in such cases.

The non existence of postal and telecommunication services are not only creating innumerable problems for the simple villagers but the Government is also losing revenue because it could earn a lot by selling postal articles and by providing postal services in the villages. The villagers can keep their money in the Post Office Savings Banks and thereby a lot of money may be available to the Government for development works. It will also give the desired services to the villagers. Similarly, if telephone and other telecommunication services are made available in every village it will help the villagers extensively. Their innumerable problems will be solved.

It is the duty of the Central Government to provide postal and telecommunication services in the villages throughout the country as the majority of the population lives there and the country being a welfare State the Government has a moral responsibility to provide these essential services to the villages.

This Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

For some years past, several brands of aerated water are being produced in the country and are put up for retail sale. Fruits provide a natural source of nutrition and are available in abundance in the country. It is, therefore, desirable that a certain percentage of fruit juices should be compulsorily added in every preparation of aerated water marketed in the country. Considering the perishable nature of fruits and fruit juices, it will be necessary to provide that all such preparations conform to the standards that may be prescribed.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above subject.
